Network and mobility management

Course description

This course brings together some of the information, experience, good practices and good ideas on Multimodal Information System. Along with the course information, we provide many links to other websites and sources that may be of interest for you as you think about implementing new measures in your town or city.

Target audience

Those who are relatively new to multimodal journey planning to help them weigh the benefits and challenges before introducing it

Thematic area

Intelligent transport systems

Please click here to find the course.

Date of release

2015

Associated with project

SOLUTIONS